Welcome

The publication of Indictable Offences Queensland will provide practitioners with a valuable new resource on the Queensland criminal law. I am delighted to be associated with this exciting development.

This is a service written by practitioners for practitioners. A team of practising criminal barristers has written fresh, up-to-date but succinct commentary to the Criminal Code and associated criminal statutes. The emphasis is on supplying the current law in a portable and accessible format.

While coverage of the law is comprehensive, the service is designed to assist busy practitioners to quickly locate the provisions and commentary they need to find. A thematic contents section will guide readers to the provisions relevant to the topics they are interested in. This practical resource will complement existing Thomson Reuters services on the Queensland criminal law and be kept up-to-date into the future by the experienced legal writing team.

I am sure this service will prove to be a valuable companion for any lawyer in criminal practice.
